Consultation fees include a summary GP letter, standard referral letters arising from the consultation, and the issuing of prescriptions where clinically appropriate. Additional charges may apply for non-standard or complex documentation requested by patients or third parties, including bespoke letters, reports, insurance forms or similar paperwork. Private medical certificates and sick notes are not included in the consultation fee and may be subject to an additional charge. Consultation fees are exclusive of any laboratory investigations or additional tests that may be required, which are charged separately and vary depending on the provider. The cost of any prescribed medications is not included in the consultation fee and will depend on the dispensing pharmacy's charges.
